Letter of recommendation

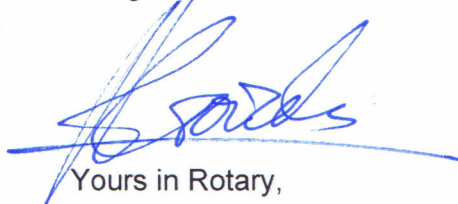

To whom it may concern:

I have known Eva Pillossof for six years in her capacity as mentor and advisor of Interact Club Blagoevgrad - Center. At the time of our acquaintance, Interact club Blagoevgrad - Center was recruiting young enthusiasts to support the Rotarian family. Eva was among the founders of the club and I was more than delighted to start working with her.

One always looks inside someone to see if they can determine where the fire comes from, and in Eva's case I think I know – it's teaching. Her role in the Interact club was to teach the young adults in the club about the principles of Rotary and she did a splendid job. Not only did she show me how to be disciplined and organized, but she also taught me how to have fun while doing so. Her creativity and her brilliant teaching methods inspired me to strive to be better and to achieve goals I never even dreamt of. Her hard work and commitment has benefited me well beyond my Interact years. Her leadership and direction have been critical in shaping my mind and character, and as a result I was empowered to pursue my dreams and achieve my goals with skill and confidence.

The ideas behind generosity and selflessness, the foundation of the Rotary organization, are not easy to explain. Eva, however, helped me grasp them rather early in my life and thanks to her leadership skills she has managed to show me in practice how these ideas bring value to everything she does.

Without any doubt I can say that I am honored and proud to have served alongside her!

Yours in Rotary,
Anna Stoycheva
